CORCORAN CONSULTING GROUP AND CONCLUSN ANNOUNCE PARTNERSHIP TO IMPROVE OPHTHALMOLOGY PRACTICE MANAGEMENT

Will create data-driven software that provides utilization and compliance benchmarks to enhance revenue and minimize risk.

Excelsior, MN, January 25 -- Today, Corcoran Consulting Group (CCG) and Conclusn, LLC have made an agreement to create a software application that provides proprietary utilization benchmarks for ophthalmic procedures so practice managers may identify missed revenue opportunities and potential compliance risks. Compatible with common practice management systems and updated periodically, the analytics software will provide data ophthalmologists, optometrists, and allied personnel need to optimize their businesses.

"Conclusn has served eyecare practices for about 6 years and clients frequently ask for benchmarking analytics," says Michael Isaac, Conclusn CEO. "Entering into this partnership with Corcoran Consulting Group will provide the trusted information practices need to operate their businesses safely and profitably in this complex and volatile environment. We are excited to work with Kevin Corcoran and the CCG team to realize this important goal."

"Utilization benchmarks serve as objective reference points for practice patterns and, while not prescriptive, they are indicative of typical behavior for ophthalmologists and optometrists," says Kevin J. Corcoran, COE, CPC, CPMA, FNAO, President, Corcoran Consulting Group. "Outliers, whether lower or higher than the benchmarks, deserve investigation yet few physicians or managers can recognize them. Working with Conclusn, CCG can help distribute this valuable information to clients in a customized manner," he added.
